

Double fake: Lookalikes of JFK and Jackie stun onlookers as they tour London in a Presidential motorcade

- Uncanny lookalikes of John F. Kennedy and his wife Jackie were spotted travelling in a vintage motorcade
- Couple smiled and waved as they drove down the Mall towards Buckingham Palace before hopping on Tube
- Passersby were shocked when they spotted former US President JFK and Jackie in her iconic pink Chanel suit
- The lookalikes were shooting the latest series of pictures for photographer Alison Jackson

By KEILIGH BAKER FOR MAILONLINE
PUBLISHED: 02:41, 8 April 2016 | UPDATED: 08:42, 8 April 2016

One of the most famous couples of all time have been spotted smiling and waving as they made their way through central London in a motorcade of authentic 1960s Lincoln Limousines, motorbikes and cars.

They drove down the Mall towards Buckingham Palace before taking a trip on the London Underground and grabbing a cup of coffee.

Passers-by were understandably shocked when they spotted former US President JFK and wife Jackie in her iconic pink Chanel suit waiting on the platform at Russell Square - but they are actually just lookalikes shooting the latest series of pictures for photographer Alison Jackson.

The snapper is renowned for her elaborate 'spoof' productions, which give an imaginary and amusing behind-the-scenes look into the world of celebrities and royals.

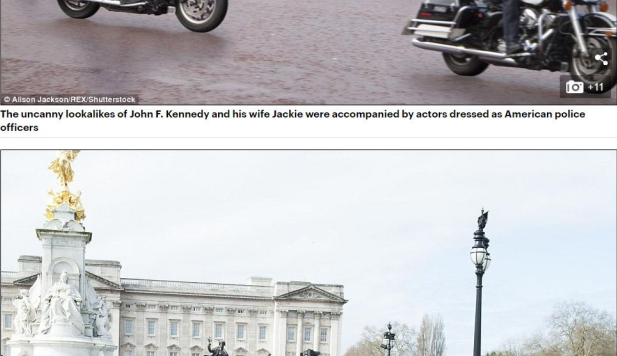

Only on close scrutiny does it become evident that the shots were posed by lookalikes.

One of the most famous couples of all time have been spotted smiling and waving as they made their way through central London in a motorcade of authentic 1960s Lincoln Limousines

They drove down the Mall towards Buckingham Palace before taking a journey on the London Underground and grabbing a cup of coffee

The uncanny lookalikes of John F. Kennedy and his wife Jackie were accompanied by actors dressed as American police officers

Only on close scrutiny does it become evident that the shots were posed by lookalikes - JFK was assassinated in November 1963

The latest stunt comes ahead of the premiere of new show '11.22.63', which sees an English teacher stumble upon a time portal and try to prevent the JFK assassination.

Ms Jackson told the Daily Star: 'The assassination of John F. Kennedy remains one of the single most iconic, shocking and recognisable moments in modern history.'

'The public response to the re-enactment shows that even fifty years on, the image of JFK inspires such warm reactions, unlike political leaders today.'

Her most recent creations include Lookalikes of the Queen, the Duke and Duchess of Cambridge, Prince Charles and Camilla captured enjoying a coffee break together.

The tongue-in-cheek photos show the Duke and Duchess of Cambridge enjoying a kiss under the mistletoe both donning a pair of Christmas slippers.

More risqué depictions of the Royal Family include a photo of the Duchess of Cornwall on the treadmill clutching gin and tonic and another of Camilla, this time smoking a cigarette.

Ms Jackson became an overnight sensation in the late Nineties thanks to a photograph that apparently showed Princess Diana and Dodi Al Fayed with a mixed-race child.

Today, her work sells for hundreds of thousands of pounds and appears in publications across the globe.

John Fitzgerald Kennedy, commonly referred to by his initials JFK, was the 35th President of the United States from January 1961 until his assassination in November 1963

Ms Jackson said: 'The assassination of JFK remains one of the single most iconic, shocking and recognisable moments in modern history'

Crowds of people gathered to watch the motorcade carrying the uncanny lookalikes pass by in a busy central London

Passersby were understandably shocked when when they spotted former US President JFK and wife Jackie in her iconic pink Chanel suit waiting on the platform at Russell Square

Ahead of the premiere of '11.22.63' on FOX this Sunday at 9pm, photographer Alison Jackson brought JFK back to life in London

The exceedingly good lookalikes were shooting the latest series by photographer Alison Jackson who is known for her spoof works

Ms Jackson's tongue-in-cheek work sells for hundreds of thousands of pounds and appears in publications across the globe