'Meghan Markle' drags 'Kate Middleton' across the floor by her hair as tensions at Kensington Palace appear to boil over in these pictures mocked up by lookalikes for an artist.

The hilarious pictures by artist Alison Jackson show two actresses pretending to fight for a celebrity spoof photographer.

'Meghan' dominates the fight as she wrestles 'Kate' to the ground by her hair and pulls her across the floor of what looks like a palace.

The pair then tug on each others' shoulders with menacing looks on their faces.

Alison Jackson, who has staged pictures of Donald Trump, Barack Obama and Boris Johnson getting up to mischief, envisaged what happens behind the scenes in the royal household.

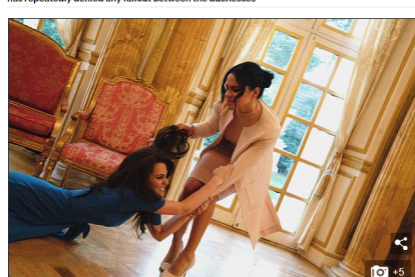

The BAFTA award-winning British artist, who is on stage at the Leicester Square Theatre next week, has poked fun at the rumoured rift between the Duchess of Cambridge and Duchess of Sussex, which has been denied by the royals.

The rumours began when Meghan and Prince Harry announced they would move out of Kensington Palace to Frogmore Cottage in Windsor.

A source told the Sun: [Meghan] and Kate fell out when she bed Kate's staff.

'It's a tricky situation but it was a one-off and they are determined to maintain a positive relationship even though they are obviously very different in their approach.'

Kate is also claimed to have been left crying in a stressful dress fitting in the lead-up to the wedding in May.

In addition, sources told the Mirror that insiders are concerned about Meghan's 'authoritative' and 'abrupt' style.
