They are yet to release the first image of their new-born baby North West. But now, thanks to photographer Alison Jackson, we have been offered an hilarious insight into Kim Kardashian and Kanye West's daughter's first days.

And of course while there's the normal baby stuff – nappies, baths and cuddles - there's also the not so ordinary which many might imagine goes on when the worlds of Kim and Kanye collide.

Introducing North West! Photographer Alison Jackson used look-a-likes to create these images of Kim Kardashian, Kanye West and their daughter

Family portrait: A topless Kanye poses proudly beside Kim and North

Family unit: North looks a little apprehensive about her super famous parents

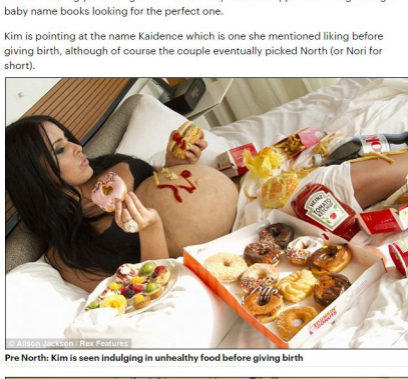

The parody pictures, created using look-a-likes, show North's, who was born on June 15th, first moments in the hospital.

A heavily made up Kim cradles her new-born while proud father Kanye, who is wearing the shutter shades he made famous, leans into her.

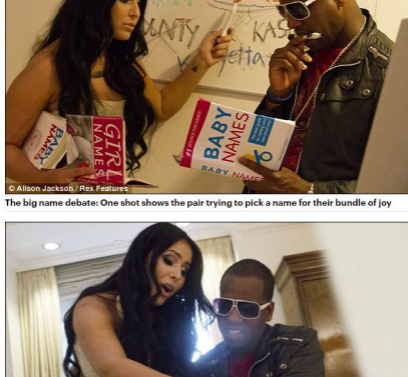

And in true Kardashian style a video camera reading the words 'reality TV' is pointed right at them, making light of the fact the family are known for filming almost their every waking second.

Not a fan: The little girl doesn't look too taken with the music pumping through the headphones - perhaps Kanye's?

Parental duties: The pictures show Kim and Kanye being normal parents... to an extent

Blingtastic: Kim makes sure her baby shines with a large tiara, as well as necklace and bracelet

Once back at their house the couple are seen fulfilling various parental duties with their darling daughter.

Rather amusingly one image shows the reality star and rapper searching through baby name books looking for the perfect one.

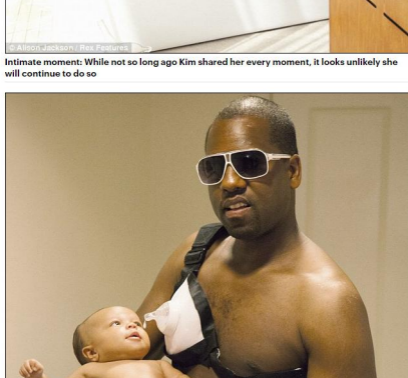

Kim is pointing at the name Kaidence which is one she mentioned liking before giving birth, although of course the couple eventually picked North (or Nori for short).

Pre North: Kim is seen indulging in unhealthy food before giving birth

The big name debate: One shot shows the pair trying to pick a name for their bundle of joy

Getting to grips: The images show the struggles the new parents will no doubt have to deal with

Perhaps poking fun at the influence Kanye seems to have over Kim he is seen dressing his daughter in a pair of shutter shades, which makes the notoriously grumpy star grin widely.

Another sees him putting headphones, perhaps with his album Jeezus blaring out, on his baby which makes her cry, suggesting she is not a fan of the album which is currently No. 1 in the UK.

Kim meanwhile is seen cooking over her little one as she baths with Kanye and then gazing lovingly at her new family unit as they lie on the bed.

Feeding time: Kim is seen giving her daughter some milk while Kanye dangles his chain in front of her

Pucker up: Kim pulls one of her famous pouts to entertain her baby girl

Intimate moment: While not so long ago Kim shared her every moment, it looks unlikely she will continue to do so

Unlikely: Kanye wears a fake breast in one of the images so he can breast feed his daughter

Ever the fan of dressing up the 32-year-old new mum is seen putting a very bling tiara on her daughter as well as a large diamond dollar sign necklace, which again is no doubt Kanye's influence.

An image, which is of Kim before giving birth, shows her indulging in heaps of junk food, poking fun at the constant references to her putting on weight during her pregnancy.

It seems these pictures will have to satisfy fans for the meantime as there is no sign of the couple sharing real images any time soon.

Rare: The rapper rarely smiles in real life but it seems his little girl can make him do just that

Proud: Kanye grins as he slips a pair of his famous shutter shades on his daughter

The big moment: Photographer Jackson also captures the moment North is first held by her mother

Play that tune: In real life Kanye is likely to encourage his daughter to listen to music

In fact this parody of the couple comes amid reports that the fiercely protective mother has hatched a plan to weed out who she can trust after welcoming her daughter into the world.

A source told Mail Online that the star sent a few friends a fake picture of her baby to see who would try to sell them to the press.

One of Kim's so-called pals attempted to sell the bogus photo of a newborn to a publication.

The baby, who is seen wrapped in a blanket, could easily pass for being the 10-day-old child. But sources have confirmed that the photo Kim sent around was a fake.
